When our daughters were little we were blessed to live by a parkway in Charlotte. One of our favorite things to do was to walk together as a family on its paths. One path led to a bridge that had a stream flowing underneath. As we walked from our home to the bridge we'd pick up small twigs. We'd make our way to the middle of the bridge and each of us would toss a twig over the side and rush to the other side to see it float by. That my friends, is how you play "Pooh sticks"!

That great philosopher, Winnie the Pooh via A.A. Milne, was the game's creator. Becky and I took in the new movie "Christopher Robin" over the weekend and seeing my old friends Pooh, Eeyore, Piglet, Owl, Rabbit, Kanga and Roo brought back many memories (like Pooh sticks) from my childhood and of our kids when they were...well, kids. Pooh was Forest Gump with fluff. He said profound things in a childish way.

"Christopher Robin" was all grown up in the movie. He had misplaced priorities and had let "life" rob him of his joy. Pooh lost his friends and sought out Christopher to help find them. In helping Pooh find his friends...Christopher finds himself again. Often, giving our precious time to help others in the midst of our own struggles is the beginning of our own healing or solution. Sometimes God can use a children's story to teach us profound truths.

If you've got kids or grandkids, I encourage you to take time to read to them - a Bible story or even a children's book that conveys a biblical truth. If you don't have kid...hey, check the attic or Barnes and Noble for an old Pooh book to read. Just looking at the pictures will make you smile! I leave you with this great Pooh quote: "People say nothing is impossible, but I do nothing every day."

Smile!

Bruce
